Battle on Tariff Sure Way to Win.

[Joseph W. Folk, in Louisville Herald.]

I, of course, have no authority to say what the Democratic party will declare for, and can speak only for myself. The Democratic party should fight, not wealth, but the wrongs that make poverty. The conditions that produce poverty are the conditions out of which tainted riches grow. The equalization of the distribution of wealth is the most serious problem confronting the American people.

The maxim of Jefferson: "Equal rights to all, special privileges to none," expresses every essential element of real democracy. With this motto as a guide, the infamies of privilege in every form can be destroyed, and unto all men can there be restored the equal rights that belong to each, the fair and equal opportunity of each and every man to live and labor and to enjoy untrammelled the gains of honest toil. The rock in the way of equal rights is privilege. The battle of true democracy should be to overcome the entrenched privilege harpies.

The privilege of lawlessness leads to graft, and a government by the few, with wealth and political power enough to secure official favors. This privilege is opposed to democracy, for the only way the people can rule is through the laws their representatives make, and if those laws are not carried out, the will of the people is thwarted to the extent the laws are nullified.

Then there is privilege conferred by law. The most conspicuous privilege of this description is the protective tariff. The Democratic party should make a straight-out fight against the present system of protection.

There is no principle involved in endeavoring to lower the duties on some articles and to increase them on others. Such a contest could be only a sham battle. The issue should not be whether raw materials be placed on the free list and high tariff on finished products, or vice versa, but whether there should be any protection at all for the sake of protection.

I do not think there should be, and I hope the Democratic party will declare squarely against this unjust system. It is not fair to tax 80,000,000 people in order to make a few men very rich; it is inequitable to give to a class a privilege enabling them to prey upon the rest of the people.

Any tariff for purposes other than revenue is wrong, just as a bounty to some of the people would be wrong in that it would be an injustice to the rest of the people.

If it be admitted that the protective system is wrong, but as long as it is allowed, we might as well get a share of the plunder for our own state, the answer is, that sharing in the proceeds of robbery could as well be justified by claiming that men will rob, we might as well profit by this weakness of mankind.

The real purpose of protection is to stifle competition and to that extent give monopoly. The time has come to protect the people from monopoly instead of protecting monopoly from the people.

It is claimed that under the protective system money is distributed by dripping down to the people from the overflowed pockets of the protective tariff barons; if that were true the people would simply be getting back a part of that which was taken from them unjustly.

Whenever a few men obtain more than they ought to have through privilege, there must be some who will have less than they should have. To say that when everybody pays too much for everything, everybody would be benefited, is to state an absurdity. If the privilege of protection could be accorded to all alike, it would in the nature of things benefit no one.

It is because it gives to a few a special privilege at the expense of the many that these few clamor so loudly for it, and it is for that reason the many should not submit to it.

The Republican party in the last campaign promised to revise the tariff downward, at least the people unquestionably so understood. No one can truthfully claim this promise has been kept. The tariff bill enacted by the last Congress was just such a bill as might have been expected when the tariff is permitted to be revised by the friends of protection. If the tariff question is ever to be settled right it must be done not by those who think the present system is proper, but by those who know it is wrong and who hate monopoly.

I have been over a large part of the United States the last few months, and I have found a widespread revolt against the Payne-Aldrich tariff law. There is a general feeling, particularly in the west, that the Democratic party has a good chance to carry the next Congress if a vigorous fight is made for the real principles of Democracy.

When a cold becomes settled in the system, it will take several days' treatment to cure it, and the best remedy to use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will cure quicker than any other, and also leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. Sold by all dealers.

A writer in the Philadelphia Press contends that gossip in the country villages is not nearly so prevalent as it is in the so-called best social circles in the cities—nor is it so vicious. The unkind word, the slanderous word, the character-assassinating word make up a deal of the small talk of people of small minds and corrupt natures.

Named As Delegates.

Governor Willson appointed the following delegates to represent Kentucky at the Tenth Annual Congress of the National Good Roads Association, to meet at Topeka, Kan., on December 14 and 15, 1909. The list follows:

Arch Hamilton, Lexington; Sam P. Jones and B. Bernheim, Louisville; Tebeau Phelps, Morgantown; Dr. John South, Frankfort; Robert Giltner, Eminence; J. W. McCulloch, Owensboro; Morgan Hughes, Bowling Green; Joseph F. Bosworth, Middlesboro; Shelby Batterman, Mayslick; T. M. Barker, Pembroke; Harry Sommers, Elizabethtown; J. O. Beck, Smith's Grove; Frank McKee, Versailles; Will H. Farley, Paducah; John T. Smith, Dty Ridge; Charles W. Fox, Marion; J. P. Wheeler, Carrollton; W. W. Clark, Sharpsburg; H. M. Froman, Ghent; John E. Garner, Winchester; Amos Davis, West Liberty; Charles E. Barker, Pembroke; C. W. Metcalfe, Pineville; R. B. Thomas, Georgetown; C. S. Williams, Versailles; Frank Patrick, Salsersville.

Croup is most prevalent during the dry cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers are never without it in their homes and it has never disappointed them. Sold by all dealers.

Sixty on Joint Ballot.

A majority of 60 on joint ballot is what the Democrats will have at the next Kentucky General Assembly. Returns have been received from practically all of the senatorial and legislative districts. The Democrats will have 26 in the senate to 12 Republicans, and in the house the Democrats will have 73 to 27. There will be no difficulty in the Democrats passing any measure they may desire over the veto of Governor Willson.

Representative Wm. H. Shanks, of Lincoln county, has announced that he will be in the race for speaker of the house, and is confident of winning.

A. C. Dunn, of Lincoln county, announces that he will be a candidate for re-election for doorkeeper of the house.

Lame back comes on suddenly and is extremely painful. It is caused by rheumatism of the muscles. Quick relief is afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Sold by all dealers.

"Snarl" is a despised dog, even among dogs. The human "snarl" is always shunned by his fellow beings, and has but little influence which always takes the form of a dark shadow—there is no sunlight in "snarl's" soul.

Send Us All the News.

A dearth of local news often leads to murmurs on the part of those who prize local gossip above all else, and it is not all the fault of the publisher. Any live publisher will not fail to give all the news worthy of note, therefore when the local department is short you should not rail at the editor, but remember you might have committed suicide, got married, quarreled with your neighbor, let your team run away, stole chickens, or done a hundred other things to make a local item.

If a newspaper should publish current street gossip, or the hints and allusions of the best society in the community, it would be ostracized and the poor editor horsewhipped or burned at the stake. Think a minute of the mean and low things you say about your townsmen and your near neighbor and imagine how it would look in print. Don't criticize the newspapers for what they print, but give them great credit for what they don't print. A newspaper that contains one-half the nonsense current among the best citizens, would be considered unfit to read.

For The Herald.

The Viewpoint of a Teacher.

As a country school teacher I find teaching a very pleasant thing with some, while it is a very hard task with others. The reason why it is so hard for some, I think, is that they forget for what purpose they were engaged, and feeling that there is a great responsibility resting upon us as teachers, I will try to give a few hints for the young teacher.

As we have all kinds of material to deal with and all kinds of intellect to develop it is a very important place to occupy, and I find that some get weary in the work and find it a hard task. The reason is, I think, they have been going to school and required to bring up such and such lessons, and we are having our pupils to do the same and I find it a hard task for the little ones. I think we should let the smaller ones have more liberty than the larger ones.

When we are making our little pupil bring up a hard lesson and not showing for what purpose it is getting the lesson, it becomes wearied and worn out, gets restless and hard to keep still and at work. The best thing I find to dispel this feeling is to compare history with today and show your pupils the great need of an education, show them the demand for educated boys and girls, and that in a few years the uneducated boy or girl will not stand so high in society. Make your pupils see this and it is not a hard task to get them to study. Make your pupils feel that the lesson is real and not something to be memorized and kept in memory all through life. Show them the life of Lincoln, the way he was brought up, the way he split and laid up rails, and would study by his pine torch at night and rose to be president of the United States, the greatest gift of the people. Show them that there is nothing impossible in the way of an education if enough time and energy is put forth. How long has it been since we had the dunce cap and stool and were not allowed to whisper? So we need not get worried if we do not keep just such order as they did back in those olden times. I find the more we converse about our lesson the more we learn about it. But some will think this a little strange, but just enough order is enough. Don't have your pupils afraid to speak to you or to move upon the seats. Whatever the old country women say about the school, don't tear it down, but just go ahead and "the righteous will prevail." "When the righteous are in authority the people rejoice."

So hoping and wishing the young teacher success, I am, a co-worker and teacher,

JAS. S. TESTER,
Murphy School.

How Did It Get There.

While reshingling the roof of Mt. Olivet church, a few miles from town, recently, four quarters of beef, in a good state of preservation, were found in the attic by the workmen. How it got there and when it was put there is not known, but the supposition is that it was hidden there by some thief, who never afterwards had an opportunity to get and use it, or was afraid to do so. Some fifteen or sixteen years ago, so we are informed, Mrs. Joann Chaney lost a beef, and the only trace that was ever found of it was the hide, which was discovered in an abandoned well. The four quarters of beef found beneath the roof of the country church may have been Mrs. Chaney's property, which was stolen from her many years ago.—Bath Co. World.

Serious Accident.

Reuben Barnes, aged 22, son of James Barnes, of the Howard's Mill neighborhood, was thrown from his horse Saturday night last and sustained injuries which may prove fatal. The boy was riding at a good gait when his horse stumbled on a rock pile in the road, throwing its rider. Barnes, besides being badly cut and bruised, had his spine injured in the fall and as a result is paralyzed from the waist down. Physicians say there is little hope for his recovery. He was taken to a Lexington hospital Tuesday to undergo an operation.—Mt. Sterling Gazette.

Abolition of Hangings.

Herman D. Newcomb, state senator, who lives in Louisville, announced that at the next session he will present a bill providing that hangings be abolished in Kentucky and that electrocution be substituted, and that all executions shall take place in the penitentiary in Frankfort.

Elmer Barker, of Stillwater, was in town Saturday and Sunday.

We had a pleasant call from C. F. Thuener, who represents the Western Newspaper Union, and he tried to get us to use their ready prints. For nearly 20 years we used the products of the predecessors of this firm, A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Union, and were well pleased with their service. However, the uncertainty of getting freight to our town and various other reasons, prevents our taking them at present. Mr. Thuener is an affable, courteous gentleman, and was a guest of the Day House during his stay.

Bail in the sum of $5,000 each was granted Theodore Allen and Amelia Allen on a hearing Thursday. They are charged with the murder of Mrs. Fannie Tutt, about one year ago. Mrs. Amelia Allen was convicted at the last February term and sentenced to the penitentiary for life, but her case was reversed by the Court of Appeals. They have not yet executed bond.—Breathitt County News.

Uncle Jordan Wills, one of the oldest citizens of our town, has been very sick for more than a year and unable to attend to any duties whatever. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he has so far recovered as to be able to walk around the yard a little on pleasant days.

One of the features of the bazaar for the benefit of the Cemetery Association, Christian and Methodist churches will be the old-time chicken pie dinner, and all who can possibly do so should go around and take dinner. Remember the time and place—J. T. Day's vacant store room, Saturday, December 11.

Miss Florence Miller, one of the best teachers at the academy, recently made arrangements with Dr. Stucky, of Lexington, to perform an operation on a little child of Mrs. Maud Craig, of near Lee City, that had drank some Banner lye about a month ago, with the hope of saving its life.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

AMERICA'S GREATEST WEEKLY.

THE TOLEDO BLADE,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

The Best Known Newspaper in the United States.

CIRCULATION, - - - 200,000

Popular in Every State.

The seventy-fourth year of its existence finds the Toledo Blade more popular than at any period of its remarkable career. It is now read each week by more than a million people. Its field is not circumscribed by state boundaries, but involves the length and breadth of the United States, giving it an unquestionable right of claiming to be the greatest national weekly newspaper in the country.

The Weekly Blade is distinctly a family newspaper. The one object of its publishers has always been to make it fit for the American home, for the fireside, and of interest to every member of the family. To fulfill this purpose it is kept clean and wholesome. The news of the world is handled in a comprehensive manner, and the various departments of The Blade are edited with painstaking care. The Household page is a de-light to the women and children; current affairs are treated editorially without prejudice; the serial stories are selected with the idea of pleasing the greatest number of fiction lovers; the Question Bureau is a scrapbook of information; the Farmstead column are conducted with the purpose of giving the patrons a medium for the exchange of ideas and information on farm topics. No department is neglected, but every feature is taken care of with the idea of making The Blade worth many times the price of subscription—one dollar a year. Sample copies mailed free. Address,

Miss Ella Trimble, of Mt. Sterling, is visiting the family of J. T. Day.

Bro. Jim Little, who has been very sick for some time, is slowly improving.

Miss Juda Cox paid a visit to her father's home, in The Calahoues, Monday.

The man who never makes mistakes misses a good many splendid chances to learn something.

Waiter Henry, of Grassy creek, was in town Sunday, and had his name put on THE HERALD list.

Miss Ella Kash, of Jackson, was a guest of Miss Carrie Rose over Sunday, returning home Monday.

Rev. W. B. Ragan preached to a large attentive and audience Sunday evening at the M. E. church.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

When a man begins by saying, "To tell you the truth," you may be pretty sure he is going to tell a lie.

Misses Rosa and Lula Perkins, of Lacy creek, attended services at the Christian church here Sunday.

Uncle Charley Cecil, who has been sick and for a time not expected to live, is gradually getting better.

W. L. Welch, representing the Paris Milling Co., Paris, was in town Tuesday calling on the merchants.

Jeff M. Rose and wife, of Lacy creek, visited the latter's parents Joe Cecil and wife, near Ezel, last Sunday.

It costs more for a dull merchant to brush the dust off his goods than it would to advertise and sell them.

The protracted meeting which was to begin at the Methodist church Saturday night has been postponed indefinitely.

Even the little children have taken an interest in the ladies' bazaar and are working with a vim to make it a success.

Misses Sue Long and Fairie Templin, teachers in the Cannel City school, accompanied by Guy Leslie and Ed Faulkner, spent Sunday in Hazel Green.

For Sale—630 fine select oak trees, within 4 miles of Cannel City and one mile of Licking river. Call on my partner, L. C. Patrick, Lykins, Ky. B. F. McCLURE.

Many school children suffer from constipation, which is often the cause of seeming stupidity at lessons. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are an ideal medicine to give a child, for they are mild and gentle in their effect, and will cure even chronic constipation. Sold by all dealers.

An Excellent Sermon.

Prof. Tom McGarvey, of Lexington, last Sunday told the story of Elijah and the Raven, in his discourse at the Christian church, and rendered it so earnestly as to impress everyone, even though a sordid sinner, of the sincerity of Christ in His promise to all who obey his commands. Mr. McGarvey is a fine pulpit orator, and is so gifted in power of speech as to command wrapt attention at all times. His sermon Sunday was a treat to all who heard him. We learn incidentally that the C. W. B. M. people are trying to get him to take the place vacated by Bro. Derthick, and if he comes, with all respects to Bro. Derthick, the next year will prove the grandest in the history of the school. Tom McGarvey, as he is called by personal friends, is a mixer among mixers, and that trait will tend to build up the school by making many more friends. We hope he will accept and come.

An Accomplished Young Lady.

Miss Ora Campbell, who, it will be remembered, won one of the prizes at the commencement exercises at the academy last spring in a recital wherein she developed exceptional ability as an elocutionist, on Sunday last sang a solo at the Christian church, entitled "Leaves, Only Leaves," which was one of the most beautiful Our Man About Town has ever heard. She was accompanied on the organ by Mrs. B. F. Poteet, who did the instrumental part in fine style. Miss Ora, and we do not say it to have her stage struck, showed by her recital in the entertainment and her song at the church that she has a remarkable voice. A gentleman from Lexington, who was at the church, remarked that he had never heard anything better rendered outside regular opera. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitch Campbell, and all of our townspeople are proud of her qualifications.

Almost Too Late.

Our Stillwater correspondence came in yesterday evening, too late to be of much use for this issue. However, we hold the paper back long enough to give the most important items: "Monday Wiley Perkins, the 17-year-old son of Doc Perkins, of Lacy creek, forcibly detained the little 11-year-old daughter of Miles Trent, of the same creek, and cruelly outraged her. The child ran to her home crying and her mother gave the alarm. Meantime the boy escaped, and a posse is in pursuit. A letter from Farmer City, Ill., states that Larkins Combs had a narrow escape from death by falling under a train of cars, and as it was, one of his legs was cut off and he was otherwise seriously injured. He is a son of Rev. Wm. Combs, of Montgomery county, and a nephew of Mrs. Robert J. Rose, of Stillwater, and S. S. Combs, of Madison county."

Celebrate Reorganization.

Jr. O. U. A. M. which has been recently reorganized at Trent, will celebrate the event on Sunday, the 28th inst., and a grand march will be one of the features of the occasion. A large crowd is anticipated and Rev. Jeff Edwards announced Sunday at Laurel church that the procession would form at 10 a. m., but whether there will be dinner on the ground or not we cannot say. Anyhow, Dr. Hunter, the district organizer, tells "Our Man About Town" that the order at that place was originally composed of the elite of that neighborhood, and that being the case we opine that dinner on the ground will be a feature. As it is a good order THE HERALD hopes it may prove a success at all times.

For the benefit of those who abhor printers' ink as a prime factor to the advancement of their interests, we should state that Samson—the strong party—was the first man to advertise. He took two solid columns to demonstrate his strength, and several thousand people "tumbled" to the scheme. He brought down the house.

Mrs. Juda Ward recently received a letter from her son, Henry, at Duchesne, Utah, stating that the first fall of snow covered the ground last week. It was three inches deep.

Among the recent transfers of real estate in this neighborhood, we note that Alex Shockey sold his farm to Mrs. Joel Gevedon for a consideration of $2,500, and then bought one from Doc Kash paying $1,750 for same.

Registers at the Day House since last report: J. W. Testerman, Louisville; A. F. Garner, West Liberty; T. A. Fields and driver, Portsmouth, Ohio; C. F. Thruener, Cleveland, Ohio; W. C. Henry, West Liberty; A. W. Cartwell and E. S. Cartwell, West Liberty.

The Ladies' Aid Society will this week meet at Mrs. F. N. Day's dressmaking establishment Friday, at 1 p. m. As the regular meeting day comes on Thanksgiving this change of date seemed best for all purposes. All members and others interested are requested to be present.

The ladies who have charge of the annual bazaar, which will this year be held in the vacant store room on the corner of Main and Broadway, Saturday, December 11, are putting forth great efforts to make this one the best ever had in our town. Let every one come out and help the ladies turn in a goodly sum to the Cemetery Association, Methodist and Christian churches.

A little son of Connor Lykins, fireman on the O. & K. railroad, was instantly killed last Monday, at his home in Cannel City. From what we can learn the little fellow was preparing to go hunting and had laid his gun down when it was discharged from some unknown cause, the entire load taking effect in the head, nearly blowing it off.

George Dyer had the misfortune of getting his hand severely hurt with a pair of scissors the other day. He had carried coal into the house and while brushing the coal dust from his clothes he struck a pair of scissors which were in his pocket, the point of which entered the palm of his hand, nearly passing thru. George says it is very painful, but hopes it will cure before he is called to Frankfort to take the job Representative-elect Perry has promised him.

We take pleasure in directing our readers' attention to the advertisement of the Southern School of Telegraphy, Newnan, Georgia, which appears elsewhere in this issue of THE HERALD. The S. S. T. is the leading Telegraph Institute in the United States and its graduates are always in demand. The railroads of the country are in need of many additional telegraph operators, and every young man wishing to learn a practical trade would do well to write the school at Newnan for its new illustrated catalog giving full information.

Her many friends and old customers will recognize the fact that she has had an experience of thirty years, and is amply able to meet all demands.

KENTUCKY KERNELS

Carefully Collected and Concisely Chronicled.

George Harrison, of Barren county, was instantly killed by a tree falling on him.

A special term of Muhlenberg Circuit court has been called to dispose of nine murder cases on the docket.

The Democrats carried over twenty Republican counties, some of which had never gone Democratic before.

The Kentucky School of Law was organized last week at Frankfort. The Judges of the Court of Appeals compose the faculty.

David Burrus, a 9 year-old boy, stole a ride on the rear of an automobile, at Winchester, and then jumped off, fracturing his skull.

Fire destroyed the house of John Alexander, at Hopkinsville, and the family barely escaped with their lives. The loss was about $2,500.

The Democrats elected five out of eight members of the Carter Fiscal court, the first time the party has had such control in thirty years.

By order of the board of health of Paris, public schools are closed and all public assemblies prohibited on account of an epidemic of diphtheria.

John Johnson, a negro prisoner in the Hopkinsville jail, was accidentally shot when a pistol fell from a policeman's pocket and accidentally discharged.

D. B. Daniel, the defeated Democratic candidate for County Judge of Powell county, has filed notice of contest, alleging gross fraud and irregularities in every precinct in the county.

Acting Governor Cox appointed A. D. Wells, Democrat, County Judge-elect of Menefee county, to fill the unexpired term of Judge W. L. Craig, who resigned because of his election to the legislature.

Judge Robert L. Stout, of the Bourbon Circuit court, will try to straighten out about fifty divorce cases which have been docketed for the November term of the court which convened last Monday at Paris.

Frank M. Tracey, Democrat, defeated Judge W. McD. Shaw, Republican, for re-election as Circuit Judge, at Covington, by only one vote, and Judge Shaw has announced that he will not contest the election in the courts.

Eight indictments against prominent Owen county farmers for the burning of the barn of County Road Supervisor Nelson Cunningham were returned by the grand jury at Owenton last week. They gave bond in the sum of $2,000 each.

But for the fact that a bullet accidentally fired from a pistol struck the watch in his pocket, C. B. Sims, of Cythiana, would have been severely wounded, or perhaps killed. Earl Dills was carelessly handling a gun that "wasn't loaded."

The Court of Appeals in a recent decision says that hotels can not serve intoxicating drinks with meals to their guests on Sunday, the Sunday closing law applying to hotels as well as to saloons. Also that the local option prohibition law does not affect the sale of soft drinks, such as "near beer."

In Lee Circuit court last week H. L. Wheeler, a local attorney, and B. Fulton French, of Hargis-Callahan-French feud fame, exchanged blows. Judge Adams imposed a fine of $30 on each and gave them a severe reprimand in open court. Wheeler had sued French for a fee for defending him in the James B. Marcum murder case.

The furnishings for the governor's reception room in the new capitol at Frankfort will cost $15,000. The rug which is to cover the floor is being made to order in France and will be one of the show pieces in the new capitol. It will be the most expensive single article in the whole building and was especially designed for the room in which it is to be laid.

That the prohibition wave has not driven out whisky, but increased its manufacture is evidenced by the fact that Collector Roberts says the receipts at the internal revenue office will this month exceed $200,000. The Old Crow distillery also notified the collector that they would increase their capacity from 394 bushels to 789 bushels per day.

ON snowshoes and with spread legs I led the way. The sleds with light loads followed. The surface vibrated as we moved along, but the spiked handle of the ice ax did not easily pass through. For about two miles we walked with an easy tread and considerable anxiety, but we had all been on similar ice before and we knew that with a ready line and careful watchfulness there was no great danger. A cold bath, however, in that temperature, forty degrees below, could have had some serious consequences. In two crossings all our supplies were safely landed on the north shores, and from there the lead had a more picturesque effect. For a time this huge separation in the pack was a mystery to me. At first sight there seemed to be no good reason for its existence. Peary had found a similar break north of Robeson channel. It seemed likely that what we saw was an extension of the same lead following at a distance the general trend of the northernmost land extension.

This is precisely what one finds on a smaller scale wherever two ice packs come together. Here we have the pack of the central polar sea meeting the land ice. The movement of the land pack is intermittent and usually along the coast. The shallows, grounded ice and projecting points interfere with a steady drift. The movement of the central pack is quite constant and almost in every direction.

The tides, the currents and the winds each give momentum to the floating mass. This lead is the breaking line between the two bodies of ice. It widens as the pack separates, narrows or widens with an easterly or westerly drift, according to the pressure of the central pack. Early in the season when the pack is little crevassed and not elastic it is probably wide; later, as the entire sea of ice becomes active, it may disappear or shift to a line nearer the land.

New Ice Steps Drift.

In low temperature new ice forms rapidly, and this offers an obstruction to the drift—the old ice. As the heavy central ice is pressed against the unyielding land pack the small ice is ground up, and even heavy flocs are crushed. This reduced mass of small ice is pasted and cemented along the shores of the big lead, leaving a broad band of troublesome surface as a serious barrier to sled travel. It seems quite likely that this lead, or a condition similar to it, extends entirely around the polar sea as a buffer between the land and the middle pack.

With the big lead and its many possibilities for troublesome delay behind, a course was set to reach the eighty-fifth parallel on the ninety-seventh meridian. What little movement was noted on the ice had been easterly, and to allow for this drift we aimed to keep a line slightly west of the pole.

The wind was not a troublesome factor as we forged along for the first day over this central pack. After a run of eleven hours the pedometer registered twenty-three miles, but we had taken a zigzag course and therefore only placed seventeen miles to our credit.

The night was beautiful. The sun sank into a purple haze, and soon there appeared three suns in prismatic colors, and these soon settled into the frozen sea. During the night a narrow band of orange brightened the northern skies, while the pack surface glowed in magnificent shades of violet and lilac and pale purple blue.

Land Clouds Still Visible.

Satisfactory observations at noon on March 24 gave our position as latitude 83 degrees 31 minutes, longitude 96 degrees 27 minutes. The land clouds of Grant Land were still visible, and a low bank of mist in the west occasionally brightened, offering an outline suggestive of land. This we believed to be Crocker Land, but mist persistently screened the horizon and did not offer an opportunity to study the contour.

Until midday the time was used for observations and a study of the land conditions. The dogs sniffed the air as if scenting game, but after a diligent search one seal blowhole was found and an old bear track, but no alga or other small life was detected in the water of the crevices. At the big lead a few algae were gathered, but here the sea was sterile. The signs of seal and bear, however, were encouraging for a possible food supply. In returning the season would be more advanced, and the life might move northward, thus permitting an extension of the time allowance of our rations.

Though the heat of the sun was barely felt, its rays began to pierce the eye with painful effects. The bright light, being reflected from the spotless surface of the storm driven snows, could not long be endured even by the Eskimos without some protection. The amber colored goggles that we had made at Annotok from the glass of the photographic supplies now proved a priceless discovery. They effectually removed one of the greatest torments to arctic travel.

The darkened or smoky glasses, blue glasses and ordinary automobile goggles had all been tried with indifferent results. They failed for one reason or another, mostly because of an insufficient range of vision or a faulty construction, making it impossible to proceed more than a few minutes without removing the accumulated condensation.

Relief in Amber Glasses.

This trouble was entirely eliminated in our goggles. The amber glass screened only the active rays which injure the eye, but did not interfere with the range of vision. Indeed, the eye, relieved of the snow glare, was better enabled to see distant objects than through fieldglasses. It is frequently most difficult to detect icy irregularities on cloudy days. The amber glass also dispels this trouble perfectly, enabling the eye to search carefully every nook and crevice through the vague incandescence which blinds the observer in hazy weather. The amber glass therefore reduces not the quantity of light, as do smoky glasses, but the quality. We were not only relieved of the pain and fatigue of snow glare, but the amber color gave a touch of cheer and warmth to our chilled horizon of blue. So thoroughly were we in love with these goggles that later they were worn while asleep, with the double object of screening the strong light which passes through the eyelids and also to keep the forehead warm.

On this march in the early part of the afternoon the weather proved good and the ice, though newly crevassed, improved as we advanced. The late start spread our day's work close to the chill of midnight, and before we were quite ready to camp there were signs of another gale from the west. Little sooty clouds with ragged edges scurried along at an alarming pace, and beyond a huge smoky bank blackened the pearly glitter.

Suitable camping ice was sought, and in the course of an hour an igloo was built. The structure was built stronger than usual. Double tiers of snow blocks were placed to the windward and a little water was thrown over the top to cement the blocks. The dogs were fastened to the lee of hummocks, and the sleds were securely lashed and fastened to the ice.

We expected a hurricane and had not long to wait to taste of its bitterness. Before we were at rest in our bags the wind brushed the snows with a force inconceivable. The air thickened with rushing drift. In a few moments the dogs and sleds were buried under banks of snow and great drifts encircled the igloo. The cemented blocks of our dome withstood the sweep of the blast very well, but many small holes were burrowed through the snow wall, permitting some drift to enter.

Early in the morning, after a rush of but a few hours, the storm ceased as suddenly as it came and left a stillness which was appalling. The dogs soon began to howl desperately, as if attacked by a bear, and we rushed out, seeking guns, but there was no approaching creature.

It was a combined signal of distress. The storm driven snows had buried and bound them in unyielding frost.

They had partly uncovered themselves, but by trace and harness they were frozen to hardened masses, so much so that few could rise and stretch, which is a severe torment to dogs after a storm. We freed their traces, beat the cemented snows from their furs with sticks, and their curling tails and pointed noses told of common gratitude.

As we skirmished about for a little stretch ourselves the sun rose over the northern blue, flashing the newly driven snows in warm tones. The temperature during the storm rose to 26 below, but now the thermometer sank rapidly below 40. The west was still smoky, and the weather did not seem quite settled. It was too early to start, so we disrobed again, slipped into the bags and sought a quiet slumber.

A few hours later we were rudely awakened by loud explosive noises. Looking about, nothing unusual was detected about the igloo, and a peep through the eye port gave no cause for the disturbance. It was concluded that the ice was cracking from the sudden change of temperature in quite the usual harmless manner, and we turned over to prolong the bag comforts.

Then there came a series of thundering noises, with which the ice quivered. Ahwahlah arose and said that the house was breaking. I turned to rise and sank into a newly formed crevasse, which up to that moment was bridged by snow. A man in a bag is a helpless creature, and with water below and tumbling blocks of snow from above pressing one deeper and deeper the case was far from humorous at a temperature of 48 below.

Still, the boys laughed heartily. Their hands, however, were quickly occupied. Ahwahlah grabbed my bag and rolled me over on snow of doubtful security. They then slipped into furs with electric quickness and tossed the things out on safe ice.

In the extreme cold the water froze in sheets about the bag, and when the ice was beaten off the reindeer skin was, to my pleasure, found quite dry. A few moments more of sleep and we might all have found a resting place in the chilling deep. That experience kept us ever watchful for the dangers of the spreading ice in all calms after storms.

The ice about was much disturbed, and numerous black lines of water opened on every side, from which oozed jets of frosty steam. The great difference between the temperature of the sea and that of the air made a contrast of 76 degrees, and the open spots of ice water appeared to be boiling.

Anxious to move along away from the troubled angle of ice, the usual breakfast was simplified. Melting some snow, we poured down the icy liquid as an eye opener and then began at the half pound boulder of pemmican, but with cold fingers, blue lips and no possible shelter the stuff was unusually hard.

To warm up the sleds were prepared, and under the lash the dogs jumped into harness with a bound. The pemmican, somewhat reduced with the ax, was ground under the molar as we went along. The teeth were thus kept from chattering, and the stomach was fired with durable fuel.

As we advanced the ice improved to some extent, and with a little search a safe crossing was found over all of the new crevices, though a strong westerly wind carried a piercing cold. Good progress was made, but we were not allowed to forget at any time that we were invading the forbidden domains of polar environment.

The Bitter Cold.

In starting before the end of the winter night and camping on the open ice fields in the long northward march we had first accustomed our eyes to a frigid darkness and then to a perpetual glitter with shivers. This proved to be the coldest season of the year. We should have been hardened to all kinds of arctic torment, but man only gains that advantage when the pulse ceases to beat.

Far from land, far from other life, there was nothing to arouse a warming spirit. Along the land there had been calms and gales and an inspiring contrast, even in the dark days and nights, but here the frigid world was felt at its worst. The wind, which came persistently from the west—now strong, now feeble, but always sharp—inflicted a pain to which we never became accustomed.

The kind of torture most felt in this wind and humid air of an arctic pack was a picturesque mask of ice about the face. Every bit of exhaled moisture condensed and froze either to the facial hair or to the line of fox tails about the hood. It made a comical caricature of us.

The frequent turns in this course brought both sides to the wind and arranged a line of icicles from every hair offering a convenient nucleus. These lines of crystal offered a pleasing dash of light and color as we looked at each other, but they did not afford much amusement to the individual exhibiting them. Such hairs as had not been pulled from the lips and the chin were first weighted, and then the wind carried the breath to the long hair with which we protected our heads and left a mass of dangling frost.

An Icy Coating.

Accumulated moisture from the eyes coated the eyelashes and brows. The humidity escaping about the forehead left a crescent of snow above, while that escaping under the chin, combined with falling breath, made a semicircle of ice. The most uncomfortable icicles, however, were those that had formed on the coarse hair within the nostrils. It is to free the face of this kind of decoration that the Eskimos pull the facial hair out by the roots; hence the real poverty of mustaches and beards.
